

At DG, life is about more than work

Let us introduce ourselves. We're not a conventional company. As a DheltGroup Sales member, your work is flexible and allows time for things that matter.

DheltGroup isn't like other companies

We support a modern entrepreneurial workstyle that lets you integrate your life with your sales efforts, giving you flexibility for things like:

Getting involved in your community

88% of workers say flexible work arrangements would increase their volunteerism.

Attending recitals, sports events and teacher conferences

76% of parents say flexible schedules are more important than salary.

Traveling and experiencing the world

56% of workers say they want more flexible hours to travel.

DheltGroup is more than a nine to five

With DheltGroup, you won't have to worry about office distractions that can slow your productivity. Here are some reasons workers prefer telecommuting:

74% fewer interruptions from colleagues.

71% reduced stress from commuting.

65% minimal office politics.

DheltGroup is more than just sales

Our goal is to build lasting relationships with our sales teams. That includes trading their daily commutes for the peace of mind that comes with self-directed goals and hours. Workers say flexible hours:

45% positive impact on their overall quality of life.

78% make them healthier.

86% lower their stress.

As a team player, you'll have unlimited earning potential and the opportunity for additional performance-based cash incentives. Give us a look - or a second one - to create your future, your way.
